Alone sad wallpaper hd for android

I love Halloween. This is my second favourite holiday only for Christmas, but holds a special place in my heart because I get back to goodness back from my birthday and then, 24 hours later, brings all the goodness Halloween. The people in dualBoot games (creators of other live wallpapers like Celtic Garden HD) have another whipped up for us, this time all haunted and scary, just in time for Halloween. It's called Haunted House HD, and as far as live wallpaper goes, despite its being time-sensitive, it's probably one of the most detailed I've come across. From the moment you open the live wallpaper selector and choose Haunted House HD, the Halloween vibe will wash on you. A camera pans from a creepy house, shrouded in fog, as lights flickered intermittently on and off. Jack-O-Lanterns guard the door and the horrific messages appear at the door in blood. Everything is very smooth, despite the fact there is so much going on. The door opens and closes itself while the camera sweeps back, lights turn on, revealing a silhouette in the window, and moves the flag up on the mailbox and under its own accord. If you want to go indoors, you have to jump into the fully loaded settings menu and change the camera view. Indoors are just as (if not more) than exterior-busy. Lights continue to flicker, the fire is a pale, haunting blue, and pictures have superimposed on the face of the skull theme. Ethereal footsteps pulse and disappear on the floor, and strange winds toss the chandelier around. It's a lot to take in, but it's still a lot of fun. Back in the settings menu, when I said load, I mean it. You can choose your camera view, set the name for the mailbox and door, choose the kind of face you want for pumpkins, and enable or disable every variable offered by the wallpaper individually. If you feel like being in the holiday spirit, Haunted House HD is $1.99 in the Android market. We've got more photos and download the link after the break. One of the perks of having an Android phone is that it's easy to customize. Every phone may look the same on the outside, but may be different in the inside. Advanced users usually customize their phones by changing ROM's features, improving its performance and removing bloatware apps installed on the phone. In contrast, newcomers optimize their phones by downloading multiple third-party applications from the Google Play Store. You can download and install keyboard, launcher, widgets and beautiful live wallpapers.
